GERMAN AIRMEN RAID HOSPITAL; BABIES KILLED

Brave American Nurses
Carry Wounded Soldiers to Cellars and Caves

FRENCH NURSE, MOTHER AND LITTLE SISTERS ARE VICTIMS

Five American Nurses On Duty During the Raid
Cheer Patients

(Associated Press Telegram)
With the Americans in France, Thursday, May 30.—German airmen made a pretentious raid on the area behind the American lines in Picardy last night. Bombs were dropped on all sides of one of the largest hospitals in a town many miles to the rear of the front. American and French wounded soldiers were carried to cellars and caves by American nurses and members of the Red Cross.

Only a few persons were injured by flying glass as most of the windows in the hospital had been shattered by bombs dropped the previous night. Several private houses were wrecked and a number of civilians including several babies, were killed and injured.

That the raid was planned on a much larger scale than recent ones over this territory is evidenced from reports made by many Americans in villages over which the raiders passed. The Germans came in wave formation and then scattered widely. One of the squadrons dropped bombs a few hundred feet from an American field hospital and at the same time one of the long range guns shelled a village a few hundred yards away.

The first alarm was sounded at 11 o'clock. The dropping of bombs and the firing of many anti-aircraft guns began immediately. Later there was a brief pause after which the raiders returned to remain almost until dawn.

A new American evacuation hospital had been opened only yesterday in a certain village. A bomb fell just in front of it last night and shattered windows, but none of the patients was injured.

In some instances the bombs fell within 30 and 40 feet of a hospital building, but fortunately, there were no direct hits. A French nurse, her mother and two little sisters were killed in a house short distance from a hospital. Another nurse was standing on the upper floor of the hospital administering to patients when a piece of bomb struck her, piercing her lung.

Five American nurses were in the same hospital. They were Miss Natalie Scott, of New Orleans, Miss Helen Spaulding of Brooklyn, Miss Mary McCadish, of Atlanta, Miss Blanch Gilbert, of Cleveland and Miss Constance Cook of San Francisco.

While the raid was in progress they went about cheering the patients. Although many serious cases of sick and wounded were aggravated because they had to be moved, (Continued from Page 1.)

300,000 MEN TO BE CALLED IN MONTH OF JUNE

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, May 31.—Official announcement was made today that 250,000 men will be called to the colors during June.

They will be ordered to report June 24 but it has not been determined to what camps they can be assigned so the list of appointments is for the present being withheld.

The quota is based on estimates of the space available for the men in camps and cantonments. If the rate of shipment of troops across is raised still more men may be called. In any event the probabilities are that enough men will be called for special service to round the number out to 300,000.

GERMAN TROOPS WERE REPULSED BY AMERICANS

Four Counter Attacks at Cantigny Prove Unsuccessful

ENEMY TANKS BROUGHT INTO USE BUT WERE DRIVEN OFF

Americans Have Not Given
An Inch Since They Gained the Town

(Associated Press Telegram)
With the American Army in France, May 31.—American aviators shot down another German airplane today, on the front northwest of Toul. It fell within the American lines.

Four German counter-attacks yesterday against the American troops at Cantigny, west of Montdidier, were repulsed after sharp fighting. In one of the counter-attacks launched against the Americans in Cantigny, the Germans tried to use tanks. The enemy infantry had no more shown itself than the American artillery opened a heavy fire. Both the soldiers and the tanks were driven back in disorder.

The new American positions in Cantigny are being improved constantly. The Americans have not budged an inch since they gained the town. When the enemy artillery starts a bombardment the American gunners retaliate and smother the opposition fire.

German airmen, flying at a great height, penetrated many miles to the rear of the American lines today. They were driven off by anti-aircraft guns and were unable to drop any bombs.

American forces northwest of Toul carried out a successful raid against the German lines late last night.

Enemy airmen were active last night and this morning bombing villages behind our lines without regard to military objectives.

The 82nd German reserve division, from which the Americans took prisoners in the fighting at Cantigny, is commanded by General von Loms and Stange. This officer served on both the Russian and western fronts and came to Cantigny between May 12-15. His division participated in the German offensive on the San river in May, 1915, which pierced the Russian front in Galicia.

FORTY GERMAN DIVISIONS IN AISNE BATTLE

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, May 30.—Forty German divisions are engaged in the Aisne battle and forty more divisions are in reserve, says a dispatch from Reuters correspondent at French headquarters. It is possible, the dispatch adds that the enemy may strike another blow for Amiens or Dunkirk but for the moment he appears to be throwing his entire strength into the conflict on the Aisne.

Fierce street fighting, it is added, attended the capture of Soissons by the Germans. The city is reported to have been in flames, Wednesday evening.

GERMANS GIVE CASUALTY LIST

(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, May 31.—On April 27, the German general staff was not in position to give detailed information regarding the German losses in the offensive operations begun on March 21. The number of men taken prisoner and missing in the German armies up to March 31. General von Wrisberg said, was 664,104. Most of these were prisoners there being 236,000 prisoners in France, 119,000 in England and 157,000 in Russia and Rumania. The remainder, about 152,000, should be considered as dead.

Germans Execute Stroke On Allied Flank on Aisne Front, Extending Battle Field With River Somme

ATTACK WAS DELIVERED ALONG THE AILETTE RIVER, NORTHWEST OF SOISSONS, BUT FURTHER SOUTH THE GERMAN ATTACK WAS BROKEN DOWN

NORTH OF RHEIMS AND ALSO TO THE NORTHWEST EFFORTS OF THE HUN INVADERS WERE IN VAIN

Present Offensive Movement Suggests Possibility of Resumption of Drive Down Oise Valley Towards Paris, Similar to That of the Latter Part of March Which Was Checked at That Time—Advance In Center Has Brought Germans to Within Two Miles of the Marne, But Wedge There is Increasingly Narrow and Enemy is Reported As Being Firmly Held

(Associated Press Telegram)
Paris, May 31.—The allied left flank on the Aisne front has been forced back by violent German attacks in the region of the Ailette river, it is announced officially.

Near Soissons, and further south, German attacks broke down, the French maintaining their positions.

In the center the Germans made a slight advance north of the Marne. Further east, and also northwest and north of Rheims, all the German efforts were in vain. The French by a counter-attack won back the town of Thillois, west of Rheims. The statement follows:

"The Germans extended their effort on their right as far as the Oise by violent attacks in the region of the Ailette. The French fell back fighting on positions to the north of the line Blerancourt-Epagny.

"In the region of Soissons and further south the German attack broke down before the heroic resistance of the French, who maintained their position in the western outskirts of the town and along the road to Chateau Thierry.

"In the center the Germans succeeded in making a slight advance in the regions north of the Marne. Further east as well as northwest and north of Rheims all German efforts to make progress were vain. An energetic counter-attack delivered by French troops won back Thillois."

The Germans continued to push forward south of Fere-en-Tardenois, according to the latest advices reaching Paris, but neither Chateau Thierry nor Dormans have yet fallen into their hands. There is reason to hope that Chateau Thierry, the population of which has fled, will be saved.

(Chateau Thierry is 10 miles south of Fere-en-Tardenois, while Dormans is six miles south of Vesilly. Both towns are on the river Marne.)

Defeated by the valor of the allied soldiers, the Germans yesterday failed to enlarge greatly the pocket in the allied line. Even in the center the enemy appears to have been held and the advance there is slackening.

In accordance with their favorite maneuver the Germans apparently are swinging their columns outward with the object of getting around Rheims through Ville-en-Tardenois and the valley of the Aisne. The position constituted by the ruined city and the high ground known as the mountain of Rheims is a menace to the German flank. It is too strong to be attacked from in front with any chance of success, so the enemy is trying to turn it from the southwest.

While any progress by the Germans on French soil, with the inevitable trail of ruin and desolation, strikes French hearts sorely, the unswerving confidence with which the general public views the situation is most remarkable. No doubt is felt as to the outcome and there is no weakening in the resolve to fight on to the end.

The Havas correspondent at the front, who is considered to reflect the official view, thus summarizes the situation:

"The rapid advance of the enemy is due to the temporary numerical inferiority of the allies which has completely changed the aspect of the struggle. It is necessary to go back to the beginning of the war for an analogous situation. This is a war of movement where two armies maneuver under the open sky.

"Under these conditions the momentary advance of an army and the capture of a town may mean nothing. The problem is more vast. For its own reasons our command did not find it advisable to give battle either on the Somme or in Flanders after the March offensive. It confined itself to stopping the enemy.

"Shall we accept battle this time as we formerly accepted it on the Marne? That is the secret of our command. The Germans have no illusions as to the value of the success they have gained. They know we have several million picket troops forming in maneuvering masses somewhere.

"If the enemy had the choice of ground for the offensive, we have the much more important choice of the field of battle on which Germany's destinies will be decided.

"It will be seen therefore, that there is no ground for alarm. We probably are witnessing the preliminaries to a great battle which both sides wish to be decisive. Consequently, it is comprehensible that our commanders do not act hurriedly, but strictly in accordance with plans agreed upon."

EXTREME POINT OF THE GERMAN ADVANCE

(Associated Press Telegram)
Paris, May 31.—The "extreme point of the German advance is Le Chateau about two miles north of the river Marne, according to an outline of the battle front is marked out by the newspaper correspondent, the Havas agency says. The fighting front it is declared, runs as follows from Chavigny north of Soissons it describes a circle west of that city and rejoins the river Crise south of Soissons. Then it goes to Brecy, follows the Soissons-Chateau-Thierry road until near Hart-

IN EMPLOY OF GOVERNMENT AND MUST NOT STRIKE

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, May 31.—Railroad shopmen of the United States were today notified through their union heads of the statement issued by Director General McAdoo last night reminding them that they are government employees in time of war and that a strike or any cessation of work at the present time would be a direct blow at the prosecution of the war.

The statement issued in connection with the walkout a few days ago of several hundred machinists and shop men at the Alexandria, Va., shops of the Southern railroad and threats of a general strike of union shop men next Monday unless further pay advances are granted declares "the government cannot be coerced or intimidated by any of its employees." The shop men are reminded by Director General McAdoo that a board on railroad wages and working conditions has been created which will hear all cases in which a group of employees feel justice has not been done. Referring to the Alexandria, Va., walkout, the director general declared it was "the first time in the history of our government that any of its employees have attempted a strike against their government."

BRITISH CASUALTIES TOTAL 166,802 FOR MAY

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, May 31.—Casualties in the British ranks reported during the month of May reached a total of 166,802. The losses were divided as follows:

Killed or died of wounds—Officers, 1,536; men 20,518.
Wounded or missing—Officers 6,182; men 138,566.

British casualties reported week by week have recently been running near the 40,000 mark evidently representing the losses sustained during the heavy fighting that started with the beginning of the German offensive in March. The total reported during April was only 52,475, as the lists apparently did not begin to reflect fully the effects of the casualties sustained in resisting the German thrusts in Picardy and Flanders until the beginning of May.

DISTINCTLY WAS NOT "O. K."

Physician Discovered a Few Things Wrong With Man Who Had Believed Himself Well.

There was recently an article in the American Magazine in which a writer told how to live and linger longer. In one part of it, the author told of a man who thought he was O. K. until he was examined by a doctor. This is what the man said:

"My arteries had thickened. (The letter had stated that, but it meant nothing to me.) That is, their covering had grown thicker and less elastic. In a healthy man they wouldn't have begun to do this until forty years or more. If they kept on at the rate they were going they would be stiff before many years. 'Pipestem' arteries he called them. That meant a disturbance in the circulation that had already begun and had already threatened my heart. More than that, these defects in circulation had thrown a heavier burden upon my kidneys. Constipation and its results, that is, the retention of poisons in the body, had put another load on the overburdened kidneys, until the excretions from them showed plainly that they couldn't carry that load and work well. And then, to cap the whole thing, I had a tooth that was suspicious. It had all the earmarks of one with an abscess at the root. It would take an X-ray to make certain, but if there was one there it meant that pus from that was draining through my body and adding to its burden."

Credulous Man Labored Under Misapprehension When He Gave Up His Seat in Car.

It had been the credulous man's busy day. Furthermore, his stenographer was out with smallpox, and the credulous man's own vaccination was just beginning to "take." So when two handsomely gowned women boarded the car near Tenth and Baltimore, the credulous man resolved for once to renounce chivalry and keep his seat. For some reason, however—perhaps with that womanly intuition we hear so much about—the two women chose the back of the credulous man's seat to cling to, and there to carry on their lamentations against selfish masculinity. "I never put in such a day before in my life," sighed the first. "Nor I," agreed the other. "Such a crowd of wild, wrangling women I never saw." It was too much for the credulous man, whose particular weakness is for the poor tired creatures who serve the bargain boudoirs. "Won't you take my seat?" he said, rising wearily and making way for his seatmate, forced to do likewise. "Thanks," said the women, shortly. Comfortably seated, one of them opened her handbag and brought forth two little green slips of paper. "I guess we don't need these any more," she said, and cast them on the floor. The letters the credulous man made out on the slips were: "R H 3" and "R H 4."—"Wed Matinee."—Kansas City Star.

The Thirteenth Juror.

What is the influence of the thirteenth juror upon the other twelve jurors? asks Willis Barnes in Case and Comment. Here are twelve men selected from the ordinary walks of life, commercial or industrial—rarely from professional life. The only impressive faculty they are supposed to have is a sane mind capable of a common-sense conclusion upon facts submitted, and that each man's mind will be brought to a unanimous conclusion, but in the effort to accomplish this the thirteenth juror takes a part; he is looked upon as one learned in the law and necessarily learned in the skillful analysis of evidence; the jury listens to this analysis and the color put upon it by one who knows what he is talking about, and when the twelve jurors retire to the consultation room they carry with them a mental influence so impressive that it cannot be easily dismissed; it enters into and necessarily becomes a part of the evidence they are called upon to consider.

Bohemia's Sufferings.

Bohemia went through some of the most barbarous of the German religious wars in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Between 1617 and 1637 the Bohemian population was reduced from 3,000,000 to 750,000 by the ravages of execution and exile, says Richard Wilmer Rowan in World's Work. The Czech language was banished from the Bohemian school room in favor of the German by the otherwise liberal Maria Theresa just two years before our American declaration of independence. Czech rioting signalized the upheavals in 1848 that drove Metternich and his fellow reactionaries to a timely seclusion. Yet the Ausgleich or Austro-Hungarian compromise of 1867 found Bohemia still refused the national recognition it demanded.

One's Friends.

On an around-zero day, Rosario was walking home from work with a friend. They met a newsboy, and Rosario's friend asked Rosario to lend him a cent to buy a paper with. So Rosario took off his gloves, unbuttoned his overcoat, sweater and coat, and shiveringly extracted a cent from his waistcoat pocket. The paper was bought. Then a block or so farther on they entered a store to make a purchase.

And in the store Rosario's friend returned the cent he had borrowed. He explained that it was too cold to take his glove off and get it when they were on the street.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Superintendent Wilson Hawkins has been signally honored by being asked to accept a position on the Committee of School Policy, which he has accepted. The committee will be cosmopolitan in its character as questions pertaining to education are to be considered from all angles. The committee will act as a clearing house and each member of the committee is asked to forward his findings from time to time to the office at Columbus. All suggestions of the committee will be carefully considered and in time it hopes to have a composite of all these findings that will constitute a valuable contribution in the general scheme of education.

Cards of Thanks.

We wish to thank our friends and relatives for their kindness shown in the death of our beloved mother, Mary Ann Johnson, and Rev. Morehouse for his consoling words. Also for the beautiful floral offerings.

THE CHILDREN.

A Feature Missing.

The moving picture business probably will never reach its zenith in the smaller towns until some device is perfected by which jokes may be sprung on the more prominent local bachelors in the course of the play, as the old theatrical troupes used to do.—Kansas City Star.

MOTHERS OF OHIO

Prepare for Trouble!

When a girl becomes a woman, when a woman becomes a mother, and when a woman passes through the changes of middle life, the three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often caused by severe organic disturbances. Many thousands in Ohio would testify just as do the following:

CLEVELAND, O.—"When passing through the symptoms which come to women of 45, I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is just right for that period of life, and I do not hesitate to recommend it."—MRS. MARY E. LUCAS, 915 Senham Ave.

DAYTON, OHIO.—"It is a pleasure to recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It was used for woman's trouble. I had used other remedies with little benefit. I was dragging around and tired out but when I had taken several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' I was much stronger and better; it did me more good than any medicine I ever took. I shall always recommend it and will use it again if I need it."—MRS. NELLIE M. ALLEN, 43 Adrian St.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—"I was in very bad condition, all run down, weak and nervous. I got so thin I was a walking skeleton. I tried different medicines, also had the doctor, but did not get any relief. I at last decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and this medicine completely cured me of my trouble and built me up in a good, strong, healthy condition. I think I have found the only medicine for women and am glad to recommend it."—MRS. J. J. JORDAN, 4724 Tullman Avenue.

Exercise the Feet.

Exercise is necessary at all times for health, not only for the body but, as well, for the feet. While there are various exercises that impart health and strength to the feet, an expert advocates walking.

In childhood and young womanhood, play and sports are their exercise, but as one advances in years, these sports are not always continued, and the result is that the legs and ankles become stiff and inactive, and the desire for taking exercise decreases.

This idleness usually prematurely ages one, and for this reason it behooves each individual to watch their step, as it were, and at the first sign of becoming slow or painful, find out where the trouble is and then adopt corrective measures accordingly. Relief, strength and suppleness may be given to stiff ankles by friction with the palm of the hand. This should be performed daily and persistently.

The treatment will strengthen and relax the muscles, relieve any congestion, restore circulation, and if continued systematically and methodically, the trouble will disappear. Should the trouble be severe or of long standing, it would be practical to secure the services of a masseuse, especially if varicose veins have become prominent.

To bind the ankles with bandages which have been soaked in olive oil, is soothing, strengthening and relaxing. These bandages should be worn during the night, and also when convenient during the day. Each time the bandages are removed the affected parts should be massaged.

To keep the ankles strong and supple, stand erect, feet separated about fourteen inches, and begin by bending the ankles outward, then inward. Repeat each movement ten times. Do not attempt to put the muscles to any great strength. Then proceed to rise to the toes ten times and finish by lowering the body to a squatting position.

Every Day Etiquette

"Will you tell me if soup should be eaten from the side or the tip of the spoon, and should knives be provided when patees are served?" asked Mrs. Younghousewife.

"Soup, to be palatable, should be hot and should be eaten from the side of the spoon. Patties are eaten with a fork," advised her mother.

Our Boys and Girls

Did you ever notice that your child likes to watch his shadow and play with it? All children do this naturally, and it should be encouraged. Use this as a help to get the children to go to bed with smiles on their faces instead of tears. In this way the child is learning by playing with his shadow that the dark has no terrors.

The finest of all bedtime plays are shadow plays. All fathers and mothers can easily make a duck, swan, rabbit or pig with the fingers and throw the shadow on the wall. I have found the of mending interest to my little ones and have had them imitate and create shapes themselves. Their bedtime, by this device, becomes a pleasure, and I am sure this plan can be followed when others fail.

Whenever riding on the cars with children they are very apt to want a luncheon, either of cookies or sticky candy. I suggest that when starting out you take a two apartment rubber lined envelope case, just large enough for your coat pocket or hand bag. On one side have a dampened cloth and in the other a dry one. Then, when little hands and faces are soiled, you will have your damp cloth to wash them with and the dry cloth to wipe the wet away.

A SUCCESSFUL REMEDY.

All things succeed which really deserve to.—which fill a real need, which prove their worth. The fact that the famous old root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's vegetable Compound, has for three generations been relieving women of this country from the worst forms of female ill, and has won such a strong place in our American homes, proves its merit beyond the question of a doubt. It will not pay any woman who is in need of such a medicine to try it.—Advertisement.

Deer Becomes Domesticated.

The efficient protection given them by the state game commission and the United States forest service in their efforts to preserve the deer, elk, antelope and mountain sheep that roam the Colorado forests has resulted in large herds. It is no unusual sight in the towns bordering the Uncompaghe national forest to see many of these wild animals grazing in the village streets.

MUST NOT SELL LIQUOR TO THE ARMY SELECTS

The Licking County Liquor Licensing Board received the following order from the state board, after a conference with Major W. S. Pealer, head of the selective service headquarters of Ohio. "From and after the day and hour that the oath is administered to a selected man in the selective draft service he is considered to be a soldier in the military service of the United States. Consequently you will at once notify all licensees in your county that they must exercise great care and caution to see that no intoxicating liquors are sold or furnished to said selected men after said induction into the military service, as above set forth, and the burden of proof of non-violation will rest with the licensee. "This order is mandatory and must be complied with."

GRANVILLE

(Special to The Advocate) Granville, O. May 21.—Memorial day observance was an ideal day, with a general response on the part of the people of this community to the president's proclamation, to make it a day of intercession. The floral offerings were magnificent and the stage in the opera house bore fragrant testimony to the loving thought of the community for its heroes, lying in the Granville burying ground, the Welsh Hills cemetery, College Hill cemetery, and Maple Grove. In the opera house at 1:30 the program was opened by "Invocation," Chaplain C. J. Baldwin. Comrade Norris presided. Comrade H. LaFerre, secretary, read the obituaries. The community chorus, directed by Prof. E. P. Johnston, led in the patriotic singing, accompanied by Miss Lois Lockhart at the piano. Alfred Evans of Denison, singing the solo parts in "Keep the Home Fires Burning." Rev. L. C. Sparks of Newark, delivered the address, and his utterances full of fiery eloquence and patriotism were simply punctuated with applause from a most responsive audience. A long procession in which the children, bearing flowers; Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Daughters of Veterans, bearing the colors, were the brilliant features, followed the old soldiers to Maple Grove cemetery. At the conclusion of the decoration ceremonies, five-minute patriotic speeches were made by Major C. D. Coons and by Dr. C. L. Williams. On the return from the cemetery a competitive drill of the companies of Major Livingston's battalion was witnessed on Broadway. Company A receiving the prize. Judson Evans of the Granville Times, was a prominent factor in the work of the committee.

HOME WAS BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE DECORATION DAY

The home of Mrs. Elroy Moore at 60 East Church street was badly damaged by fire yesterday afternoon. When the blaze was discovered the members of the family were away on a picnic and could not be located until the blaze was extinguished. How it ignited is not known but it is attributed to a defective electric wire, and the fire was confined for the most part to the rear of the house, completely destroying a garage and sleeping porch. Water did considerable damage throughout the house, all of the paper on the walls, and the furniture in many instances was soaked. The fire was discovered at 2:30 o'clock and burned until 4:30. The family had gone to Cat Run on a picnic and were located by telephone and told of the fire. The loss is several thousand dollars partially covered by insurance.

Expert Indian Weavers

The ancient Indians of Peru are now regarded as the world's greatest weavers. This noteworthy revelation in the history of textile art is the result of the critical examination of many rich and beautiful tapestries and other fabrics executed by the gifted ancient Indian population of Peru. Though buried three centuries or more in the sandy desert after being made with primitive hand looms and other weaving implements, these wonderful fabrics are now found to be superior to those turned out by the automatic looms of the great mills of today. The primitive Peruvian hand looms consisted of two sticks, one at the top and one at the bottom.

lance, they went wild, demanding with unworldly fervor an encore. From that moment the utmost sympathy was established between singer and hearer, and the people sat enthralled by the most perfect exhibition of vocal skill ever before presented in Granville. The Homer group afforded opportunity for contrasted effects from "The Requiem," "A Banjo Song," and "Uncle Rome," which brought down the house. The group of Kipling's ballads: "Follow Me, Ome," "smugglers' song," "Mother o' Mine," and "Danny Deever," brought out yet other qualities of voice and temperament which completely dominated the audience, and the closing number was something to remember all one's life. It has been sung by other artists, both here and on other platforms, but it was an entirely new "Danny Deever," who gave one "the shivers" last night. One has not time to analyze the program and the perfection of Mr. Middleton's art. His glorious voice, of which he has absolute control, revealed a quality unusual in a male voice of beautifully sustained pianissimo passages, soft as a breath, yet clear and distinct as the vibrations of a bell, during which the dropping of a pin would have been heard with a shock. And the accompaniment played by K. H. Eschman of Denison conservatory, with the fire and abandon of true genius were a vital part of the magnificent performance. The annual high school commencement will be held in the opera house on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Music will be furnished by the Girls' Glee club. Phi Gamma Delta delightfully entertained Shepardson college friends at the lodge from 5 to 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening, where elaborate preparations had been made for dinner on the lawn. However, the weatherman entered objections and the party was carried on in the house with no loss of enjoyment. The rooms were decorated with white pennies and lighted by innumerable candles. Dinner was served at small tables at which covers were laid for the picnic couples, the guests being: Miss Weston, Misses Lora Palmer, Laura Crayton, Louise Hamblen, Mary Sanford, Ruth Rittig, Maude Sutton, Dorothy Shepherd, Florence Carney, Eva Wilson, Laura Price, Miss Hobart, Josephine Darrow and Frances Ray. Mayor C. D. Coons had as guests to the Middleton concert, last evening, his mother, Mrs. S. A. Coons, and his sister, Miss Florence Coons of Pataskala. Mrs. J. R. Fitzgibbon and Miss Fannie Hamill of Newark, were among the out-of-town patrons of the Middleton concert last evening.

HOW FOCH WILL WIN THE VICTORY

In the whole history of war, as one journal remarks, one can find no individual responsibility equal to that of Gen. Ferdinand Foch, "called to the head of six millions of soldiers to achieve victory for human liberty and civilization." Four great nations have unreservedly entrusted their armies and their destinies to this French general. More than six millions, in fact, may be under his supreme command, for the Italian Premier says that the Allied conference "recognized a united front from the North Sea to the Adriatic as an effective reality"; and some estimates place the Allied troops in France and Belgium alone at not less than six million. What, ask our military critics of the press, is the plan of this leader in whose genius the Allied nations have such faith? It is to answer this question that the leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST for June 1st has been prepared. The article includes the opinions of the war experts and presents all available information.

This number of "The Digest" might justly be termed a "Foch Number," because the cover shows a strikingly handsome reproduction in colors of an authentic picture of the great French Commander-in-Chief.

Other articles of unusual interest in this number are:

- America's Duty in Eastern Europe Germany Must Not Be Allowed to Carry Out Her Designs in Russia
- Another Coal Shortage? Binding the Fetters on Austria Japan's Siberian Slip-up Germany's Stolen Chemistry Bill's Plan to Speed Up the Ships How Chinese Labor Would Keep Us from Starving How Our Soldiers Sing America vs. British for Nine Innings Missouri's Pride in Her Poets How the Kaiser Prays Other Quakers News of Finance and Commerce

- Winners of the Government's Poster Awards To Rewrite Our Histories A Martyr Memorialized Another View of German Ethics Personal Glimpses of Men and Events

"The Digest" Prevents a One-Angled View

These are anxious days in Flanders and Northern France and those of us who look only at the heroic struggle the British are making against heavy odds may be perhaps the least bit fearful of the outcome. But this is only a partial view, after all. What we should do is to survey the Allied lines as a whole—French, American, Italian, and English—and then we realize at once that the pressure at the North is only a part of the great struggle, and that Southwest

EATON BOOTH IS TO BE APPOINTED BY MR. ASHBROOK

Eaton Booth, son of R. E. Booth, 250 Granville street, who is a member of this year's graduating class at the Newark high school, was made very happy yesterday when The Advocate telephoned to him a Washington message, saying that Representative Ashbrook would appoint him for admission to the United States naval academy at Annapolis, Md.

Last February Booth was appointed a second alternate to Annapolis but the success at the April examinations of his principal, James Orr, seemed to close the door on his ambition to enter the academy. Neither Senator Pomeroy nor Senator Harding was able to give him an appointment but as the young man had made a good record in his examination, Congressman Ashbrook found a way to obtain an appointment for him. Mr. Ashbrook sent word yesterday that as one of the principals in the seventeenth district has failed he had decided to name Booth. Therefore, three Newark boys—James Orr, Frank Spencer and Eaton Booth—expect to receive orders to report for duty at the naval academy sometime in the month of June.

Editor of The Advocate:—I received the bronze medal given by the people of Newark to the boys of Licking county. Would be glad to hear from all of you at any time. Yours truly, Jesse E. Berger, Co. 12 3rd Train, Bat. 158 Depot Brigade, Camp Sherman, O.

Editor of The Advocate:—Permit me to extend my thanks and appreciation to you, also the people of Licking county for the beautiful service medal which you sent to me recently. Same will always be highly valued, not for its intrinsic value, but for the patriotic spirit with which the people of Licking county gave it. Am now located at Camp Merritt, N. J., and expect to go across in the near future. Yours sincerely, Fred J. Woodcock, Co. D, 31st Infantry, Camp Merritt, N. J.

Editor of The Advocate: To you and to the people of your community through you I beg to acknowledge with deep appreciation your most sympathetic action. I am grateful not only for the bronze medal itself and Fainting Goats.

Do you ever see a goat faint? Probably not. But the thing does happen—not, perhaps, to the every-day goat, but to animals of that breed which are found in Tennessee. Oddly enough, in that state the "fainting goats," as they are called, seem to be restricted to one small locality. In other respects they are just like ordinary goats, but on slight provocation they will "throw a fit." If suddenly approached or otherwise startled they fall to the ground. Apparently the trouble with them is not heart-weakness, but a peculiar nervous complaint. Any sort of alarm gets their goat, so to speak.

Sawdust in this Industry.
The heaviest sawdust is that obtained from ebony. It is black in color, although there are traces of light white fibers. The ebony is not a large tree, and its wood is not black through and through; the sapwood is white. It is particles of the sapwood that appear in the ebony sawdust, mingled in the sawing, but to the average eye, except on very close inspection, the ebony sawdust appears black. Holly furnished the whitest of sawdusts. This sawdust is made into a very fine pulp form, is used for floor material and enters into the composition of certain grades of wallpaper.

Sai Jiki Ancient City.
In the days when St. Paul addressed his epistle to the Thessalonians, Saloniki was not modern, for it was built about 315 B. C., on the site of an older city called Therme, says the London Globe, and was named by its founder after his wife, a sister of Alexander the Great. It has always been a place of importance, as it is the chief harbor of Macedonia, and was a point on the ancient highway from Rome to the East. With the few fine buildings, like the old mosque which had been in turn a temple of Venus and a Christian church, it has always been a collection of houses largely of wood, and therefore highly inflammable in the extreme continuous heat of summer.

Facts About Facts.
A fact is a valuable thing, and ought to be saved up. Start a savings account of facts. They have the strangest way of popping up just when they're needed—if you've stored them away. The schoolhouse is the main fact factory. A man said to us the other day that what he learned before he was fifteen was worth more than all he had learned later. Personally we would rather have a fact savings account of facts than of dollars. A dollar will earn from three to six per cent. A first-class fact may some day earn you $10,000.—American Boy.

Longevity Statistics.
A child born today has about ten times as many chances of living and growing to maturity as had the child born 30 years ago. On the other hand, a man forty years old has fewer years to live than had the man of the same age 30 years ago. Medical statistics prove that infant mortality and preventable diseases are decreasing, whereas degenerative diseases and cancer are increasing. However, the gravity of the wastage of adult life will not be appreciated until there is a nation-wide registration of the sick.—Popular Science Monthly.

Better Than a Fish Story.
This narrative comes from Nalroht, in British East Africa. A hunter met a most magnificent lion almost face to face. With a terrible roar the beast sprang at the man but missed his aim by jumping two feet too high. Disappointed, it dashed away into the woods. The next day a party set out to track the beast down. At length they came upon it in an open space in the jungle. The beast was practicing low jumps.

Reasonable Theory.
"Why, John," exclaimed Mrs. Newkild as she came into the room, "what in the world makes the baby cry so?" "I don't know, my dear," answered Newkild, as he handed the infant over to its mother, "but I imagine he is thinking of what the governor of North Carolina once said to the governor of South Carolina."

Optimistic Thought.
A true republic favors neither anarchy nor despotism.

When prices soar, don't get that way yourself.

DOCTORS GIVE REASONS FOR SPRING FEVER

Explain Its Real Meaning
"The name Spring Fever," said a well known physician in conversation the other day, "is a misnomer, and is largely a figure of speech used to describe the peculiar lassitude, that so many people complain of at the expiration of our winter months. It is a physiological condition well known to the medical profession, and is not a fever at all, but a general letting down of nature's forces, particularly of the nervous centers, due to the deficiency of iron and phosphorus both of which are absolutely necessary for the maintenance of bodily vigor."

"Of course," he continued, "the excessive meat eating, the loss of green vegetables and of oxygen, of which there is so little in the average heated house, all play their part. The result is that nature is calling for an increased output of the vital forces during the winter months, and this demand means more phosphorus and iron. For it is these two potent remedies combined, which are nature's armament in her defensive warfare. With the advent of warm weather, the pores act more freely and the heart slows up and that peculiar lassitude which we call Spring Fever is manifested."

"And the remedy, Doctor," an interested listener asked? "Why my dear sir, the remedy for these starved nerve and blood centers is Phosphated Iron. But there is no reason why we should ever reach this point, if we would, from time to time take that well known remedy, Phosphated Iron, and so maintain the physiological balance, as shown by our color, our sense of well being, push and activity, all of which are necessary to make life worth while."

And the Doctor was right. Special Notice—To insure Doctors and their patients receiving the genuine Phosphated Iron, we have put in capsules only. Do not allow dealers to substitute tablets or pills. Insist on capsules.

THE COURTS

Suit for Money.
A petition was filed today by Hattie Ferguson against Howard M. Decker in common pleas court stating that the plaintiff entered into an agreement with the defendant on November 28, 1916, whereby the plaintiff transferred all her interest to the defendant in a house located at 51 Oakwood avenue. The defendant purchased the real estate from Ira E. Wintermute on a contract which provided for a cash payment and the balance payable in monthly installments of $25 per month. The contract provided that in default of payment of taxes and installments the said Ira E. Wintermute would have the right of possession. The contract further provided that if the defendant did not perform the terms of the sale, the plaintiff had the right to sell the property for $2900 and the defendant was to pay the difference between the sale price and $2,900. The property was sold for $2,700 and the plaintiff seeks judgment for $200 with interest from April 11, 1918.

Is the second cause for action the plaintiff says that the defendant transferred all furniture and household goods to her and that the defendant rented the property from May 10, 1917, until April 10, 1918, at $17 per month. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant converted household goods, valued at $20 to his own use and that she is entitled to the sum of $238 for the rent of the property, making a total of $398 for which amount she seeks judgment.

The plaintiff further seeks judgment for $189.18: $175 for default of payment of seven monthly installments of $25 and December taxes of $14.18.

GETS UP READY FOR DAY'S WORK

Feels Healthy and Cheerful and Regains Weight—Praises Tanlac.

"Instead of feeling all run-down and dreading to start out for my day's work as I did just a short time ago, I now am healthy and cheerful and feel confident of myself. Tanlac is the reason," said McChellen Breaden, 224 West Jefferson street, Louisville, Ky.

"My system got run-down all over. I couldn't sleep at night and never got my rest as I should. I felt so bad when I got up in the morning that I just dreaded to start out for my work. I dreaded to go to bed at night, too, because I knew I wouldn't be able to sleep."

"My appetite was poor also. I didn't eat much and I guess that was why I started losing weight. I lost about ten pounds."

"In my weakened condition my work as a carpenter was a real hardship."

"Well, I started taking Tanlac. I took three bottles in all and my health is a lot better."

"I sleep soundly every night now and get good rest. I feel ready for my work when I get up in the morning, too."

"My appetite is natural again and I've gained back most of the weight I'd lost."

Get Tanlac if you don't feel right and get your system back in shape. To feel good is the best thing on earth.

TO RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS.
The new Tanlac Rheumatic Treatment consists of a penetrating liniment for external use, and a tablet designed to drive uric acid from the system. BACKS UP CLAIM THAT CATARRH AND DEAFNESS CAUSED BY CATARRH MAY BE ABOLISHED

Katarrho Blower Spreads Antiseptic Vapor Over Catarrh Polluted Membrane, Smothering Germs and Killing Them

See the picture of the little Katarrho Blower below—simple as it looks and is, it is one of the important medical discoveries of recent times.

And for this reason—with it you can blow germ killing vaporized air on the tender membrane of the nasal passages and throat and destroy the pernicious germs that devour the membrane and cause catarrh and catarrhal deafness.

It is the only invention that can carry the germ killing air into every nook, fold and crevice of the mucous membrane where the germs thrive and multiply.

You blow without effort; just place the small lower tube in the mouth, the upper two in the nostrils and blow the destructive germs into perdition. It's the quick sure way to banish catarrh—many say it is the only way.

Read these letters from people who know and then ask T. J. Evans who has a supply of Katarrho and Katarrho blowers on hand to let you be cured of Asthma and have never had the least symptom of a return. Mrs. Fries, 1618 N. Avers Ave., Chicago.—Advertisement.

SERVICES FOR AMERICAN DEAD NEAR PICARDY

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

With the American Army in France, Thursday, May 30.—In the Memorial day exercises in the rear of the American sector in Picardy, a small American flag and flowers were placed on each grave of an American soldier. The ceremony was in charge of four American chaplains and one French chaplain, assisted by the Salvation Army representatives.

Lincoln's Gettysburg speech was read, after which the band played religious and patriotic anthems, and prayers were said in English and French. Chaplain Thomas J. Dickson of the American army, paid tribute to France for her noble aid to America during the American revolution, and drew lessons for the present from the lives of Washington, Lafayette and Rochambeau.

It was most touching to see old women, old men and children from the nearby villages standing near the American graves with flowers in their hands. Tears came in many eyes as Chaplain Dickson spoke.

"The living would speak to the dead and by placing flowers on their graves tell them that their sacrifice has not been in vain," he said. "The flowers are the testimony of our eternal gratitude."

The Rev. Father A. Cadoux, the French chaplain, paid tribute to the dead American soldiers and to the valor and heroism of France. He said that the mothers, fathers, sisters, wives and sweethearts of the American dead may rest assured that the French will always care for the graves of their heroes.

The French civilians then advanced and placed their floral tributes on the graves. The little cemetery was literally covered with flowers. The touch of war was not missing and just at the close of the service American anti-aircraft guns began to fire on German airmen hidden behind the clouds.

A touching picture was added to the ceremony when a horse belonging to one of the American officers killed at Cantigny, was led to the grave of his dead master where he remained until the ceremony was over.

AMBASSADOR TO ITALY WAS NAMED IN THE VICE LIST

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

London, Thursday, May 30.—Under cross examination after his startling testimony for the defense in the trial of Noel Pemberton-Billing on the charge of libelling Maude Allan, dancer, and J. T. Grein, manager of the Independent Theatre, Captain Harold Sherwin Spencer declared today that in May, 1917, he had made this report to the chief of the British general in writing:

"We are being undermined in Italy because the British ambassador in Italy is blackmailed by the Germans and is afraid to send information to England."

Captain Spencer added that the ambassador's name was also on the list prepared by German secret agents of 47,000 British men and women. Earlier, Captain Spencer and Mrs. Villiers Stewart had declared that the persons named were said to be addicted to vice and held in bondage to Germany through fear of exposure. Captain Spencer said he was born in the United States and had served in the American navy. Mr. Pemberton-Billing, the defendant, is publisher of the newspaper Vigilante and a member of parliament.

The general commanding the American base and his staff, the mayor of Bordeaux, the French commandant of the region and the perfect were present. An American military band rendered the national hymn of the allied countries. The ceremony concluded with a French and American military parade.

At the end of a day and a half of walking, it is said, Penn declared he had land enough. He had walked 40 miles.

the nurses had to carry them to the lower floors and the cellar.

"It was an exciting time," said Miss Scott, "but there was no panic. Some of our boys actually slept through it all although their beds were showered with broken glass."

Three American ambulances were caught in the raid. Sergeant Ethel Wells, of San Francisco who was driving the first ambulance said:

"Our three ambulances were hurrying to hospitals with patients when a bomb wrecked a building directly in front of us, in a narrow street. Our ambulance was perforated by flying missiles. We were all hurled out but escaped with a only few scratches."

Private Robert A. Bowman, of Galveston, who was in the same car said:

"There was a terrific explosion. The next thing I knew I was lying on the ground. I looked around and heard the patients groaning. I pulled myself together and found the patients uninjured except for the shock. Our ambulance was shot to pieces."

The second car apparently received the full force of the explosion and was wrecked completely.

Private Roscoe Wiley, of Madisonville, Texas, was driving the third car. Sergeant J. W. Nolder, of Altoona, Pa., and three patients were with him.

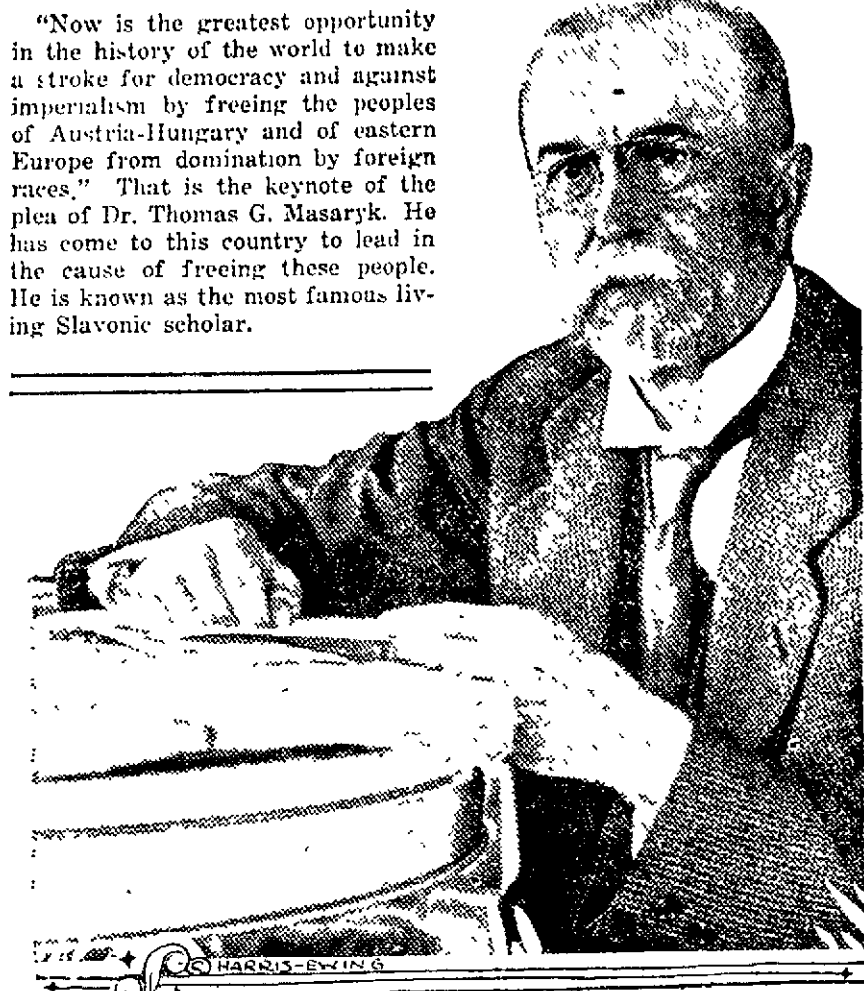

"There was wreckage all around us," said Sergeant Nolder. "Injured civilians in the shattered house nearby were begging for help. We all pitched in as soon as we had recovered from the shock and assisted in the work of rescue. We had to dig many persons from the debris by the light of small pocket lamps. Meanwhile enemy aircraft were buzzing overhead. The barrage was deafening. Bombs continued to fall. It was worse than anything in the trenches. I would rather have been in No Man's Land."

"Oh, dear!" exclaimed Immogene, who lives with her very strict Aunt Priscilla, "I wonder why it is that puritanical people are nearly always so puritanical!"

FREE EASTERN EUROPEANS FROM HUN OPPRESSION, PLEADS SLAV LEADER

"Now is the greatest opportunity in the history of the world to make a stroke for democracy and against imperialism by freeing the peoples of Austria-Hungary and of eastern Europe from domination by foreign races." That is the keynote of the plea of Dr. Thomas G. Masaryk. He has come to this country to lead in the cause of freeing these people. He is known as the most famous living Slavonic scholar.

Dr. Thomas G. Masaryk.

Oil Used to Prevent Fog.

OIL, though long known to be effective in calming a sea, has only recently been proved of value in preventing fog. Air is prevented from coming in direct contact with water which is warmer than the air. Thus condensation of water vapor is hindered. It has been found that olive oil when spread out over a calm sea will begin immediately to lift the fog. "Grass Islands" entirely obscured by the fog bank at only a few yards have been discerned as far away as a mile, in line with the clearing made by the oil. Wind, of course, tends to counteract the effect of the oil, except in the direction in which it is blowing.

Avoid Loss of Sleep.

A frequent cause of nervousness in many people is loss of sleep. It gives rise to headaches and neuralgia, and is mainly responsible for other distressing ailments. The man or woman whose sleep is unduly disturbed as the result of heavy mental work, by night watching at the bedside of the sick, or through irregular hours of employment, should endeavor to secure a little refreshing sleep whenever possible in order to make up for the loss sustained. For not only will headaches and other ailments develop from sleeplessness, but the nervous system will soon become considerably deranged as a consequence. So be careful upon this point. Go to bed early. Sleep well.

No submarine destroyers or depth bombs should be necessary on this sea of matrimony.

JOSEPH STILL IS APPOINTED ENSIGN IN THE U. S. NAVY

Mrs. Joseph Still and two children, have arrived from Florida to spend the summer with Mrs. Still's mother, Mrs. Frona Campbell of Maple avenue.

Mr. Still who was formerly a civil engineer with offices in the Newark Trust company, has re-enlisted in the navy with the rank of ensign. He had served an enlistment in the navy and following its conclusion completed his education at Denison University.

GERMANS EXECUTE

ness, where it bends south of Grand Moser. Then on southwest leaving Mulchy-le-Chateau, it passes Nanteuil-Notre Dame and advances toward the Marne to Courcy, Brecy, Coupoul and Le Charnel, which marks its extreme southern point.

Through Vessilly, Grouillet, Savigny and Thiellos it runs northeastward to the environs of Rheims. The newspapers do not attempt to minimize the importance of the German advance. Gabriel Llanouaux in the Figaro compares the strategic situation with that on the eve of the battle of the Marne.

All the commentators express confidence that the light command will so dispose the allied troops as to restore the situation, which L'Homme Libre considers to have reached its maximum point of gravity yesterday.

The petit Parisien, says the government officials who saw the army chief yesterday returned in the evening still confident which it regards as a good sign.

It is the resistance of the two wings of the allied forces which inspires the confidence of all the military critics. To take victorious advantages of the success they have so far gained the Germans must succeed in bending these two hinges and all their efforts to do this have been in vain. Another reason for the confident feeling is the arrival of allied reserves.

General Foch and General Petain are working intimately together, it adds, to meet the serious situation.

In commenting on the intervention of the fresh forces, L'Homme Libre says it does not appear doubtful that the enemy has reached the extreme point of his advance and that he will encounter the allied reserves, carefully withheld until a favorable moment shall arrive for a counter-attack.

LEAD ALL WAR

ADVANCE TOWARD MARNE.

(Compiled from A. P. Dispatches.)

Keeping the tide of their advance in the center flowing strongly, although seemingly less swiftly, toward the Marne, the Germans simultaneously have executed a stroke on the allied left flank that has extended the battle line westward and virtually linked up the present battlefield with that of the Somme.

The attack was delivered along the Ailette river, northwest of Soissons. Sweeping forward in the salient that projected between the Somme and the Aisne battlefields, the Germans drove the allied line back so that it now runs northwestward from the vicinity of Soissons, through Epagny and Blerancourt to the Oise river, apparently at its point of junction with the Oise canal about eight miles east of Noyon.

The Noyon area was included within the field of the German offensive in March, when the French established new lines along the Oisne and the Oise canal to the east and southwest of that town after being driven back below St. Quentin. The German drive down the Oise valley toward Paris was then checked. The present offensive movement here suggests the possibility of its resumption.

The advance in the center has now brought the Germans within two miles of the Marne at one point, Paris dispatches report. The wedge here appears increasingly narrow, however, and on its flanks below Soissons and Rheims the enemy is reported firmly held.

The French war office announces the breaking down of enemy attacks in the Soissons area and to the south, while on the allied right the line extending northeastward toward Rheims from the neighborhood of Vezilly appears virtually unchanged, the Germans failing in all their efforts to win ground.

The energetic defense on the right wing is exemplified by the fighting at Thillois, three miles east of Rheims, where the Germans entered the town only to be driven out by a French counter-attack.

By such resistance the safety of Rheims is momentarily safeguarded, but observers of the operations view its ultimate fall as apparently inevitable.

The probability of German penetration right up to the banks of the Marne in the center of the advance is likewise indicated in the news dispatches, which mention the near approach of the Germans to Chateau Thierry and Dirmans, both of which towns are on the Marne river. The civilian population has left Chateau Thierry and some of the refugees from it have already passed through Paris for the interior.

On the British front the Germans are active with their artillery east of Amiens and in the Albert region to the north as well as on portions of the Flanders front, but no infantry movements of note are reported.

In the Toul sector on the French front the Americans have carried out a successful raid.

Baffled in their efforts to strike eastward and westward from the new salient in the allies lines, the Germans are attempting to reach the Marne with their heavy forces before the allies resistance becomes strong enough to hold them entirely. In the center, however, the enemy progress is slackening as the allied reserves are being thrown into the battle.

Heavy fighting continues all along the arc-shaped salient from Soissons to Rheims. Struggle as they will against the French defense on the west around Soissons the Germans are unable to gain. In the region of Rheims the same story is true as the British and French divisions there stand firm.

By penetrating to the Marne or southward from Fere-en-Tardenois, seven miles of the river, which they now hold the Germans apparently hope to spread out eastward and westward, as they failed to do further north and thus outflank the strong allied positions at Soissons and at Rheims. French resistance in the center however, is growing in strength and the Germans are getting farther and farther from their original base along the Ailette.

Paris and London view the situation more favorably and in neither capital is there fear that the German offensive will become as a serious menace to the allied defensive as the original onslaught in March.

Although the German salient is about 18 miles deep at the center, Paris is not much nearer nor has the enemy advance yet affected the allied lines eastward from Montdidier. In fact, the Germans would be in a dangerous position should General Foch strike eastward along the Aisne from Soissons. This may be the purpose of the allied strategy in holding strongly on the flanks as the Germans get deeper and deeper into the pocket toward the Marne.

The aerial activity over the territory of the German advance is most intense and French airmen have dropped many tons of bombs on enemy targets in addition to bringing down nineteen German machines. Berlin claims the capture of much war material, including a number of the largest French guns. The number of prisoners is now said to be more than 35,000.

Elsewhere on the western front there has been little activity. The artillery fire has increased in Picardy but infantry actions there and in Flanders have been limited to raids. West of Montdidier the American troops still maintain their hold on Cantigny despite German counter-attacks. The Americans in 242 prisoners, latest report say. Fighting continued around Cantigny, but neither the enemy artillery nor infantry has been able to make any impression on the American defense. Lively fighting also has occurred on the Luneville and Toul sectors. In aerial fighting northwest of Toul one American aviator fell prisoner to the enemy. Two German machines were destroyed and another sent down out of control.

In northern Italy there has been no infantry action of moment. The artillery duel there is less violent.

The Old Cabinet Organ.

It was not so long ago that every family pretending anything had a cabinet organ in the house. One might do without a hair-cloth sofa as smooth as glass, but there must be cane-seat chairs with dummies on them, iron-jawed paintings—and a cabinet organ. The instrument was in the best parlor of the rich and the poor, and one of the girls in the family had always taken lessons enough to allow her to play "Greenland's Ice Mountains," "Kitty Lee and Willy Gray," or roll out the grand old tones of "The Coronation." No evening was complete without a song cycle in the parlor after dinner, and then there was the neighborhood singer, who essayed "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and got stuck on the high notes, making it necessary for the accompanist to "rump" a little until the music got down again to where he could tackle it like a man doing a day's work on a wood pile.—Los Angeles Times.

Wily Scorpion.

The scorpion that is placed in the center of a ring of coals does not commit suicide by stinging itself to death. In lands where the scorpion abounds it is a regular pastime among countrymen to ring a scorpion with fire and watch him commit, as is believed, the happy dispatch. Nevertheless, the scorpion has the last laugh and not the spectator. The scorpion, though an inhabitant of torrid regions, is so delicately organized that a very slight increase above the normal temperature produces a condition in him analogous to a fainting fit. Driven desperate by the heat, he lashes his tail wildly, giving the impression that he is plunging his tail into his body. Then he falls motionless. As a presumably dead scorpion has no further interest for the spectators, he is usually left where he has fallen, and, after the fire has died down, he recovers and crawls away.

Absorbed.

Upon hearing that a burglar was breaking into the house of a distant friend a worthy man sent word: "I know that you are a fine, brave, husky fellow; knock the stuffing out of the intruder!" Presently the victim replied: "Pinocchio is everything to me, and I am busy playing it. I trust that the burglar will watch me play, if, indeed, he does not join me in this greatest of games. I appreciate your kind words, but at the same time my mission in life is not to repel burglars but to play pinocchio constantly and to advise everybody else in the world to do the same. It is more important than anything else."

Took No Notice.

"What kind of people are your neighbors?" a suburban lady was asked. "Oh, I never take the slightest notice of them or their doings, my dear," she said. "They don't keep a maid, and a charwoman comes on Wednesdays and Fridays. The tradesmen never call for orders, the husband brings various parcels home from the city, and sits down to dinner in his shirt sleeves. The wife is a most dowdy creature, wears hideous hats, and has no 'at home' day. The children attend the council school, and the baby hasn't been vaccinated. But, as I say, I know nothing at all about them, and take not the slightest notice of them."—London Tit-Bits.

DEDICATION OF BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY, JUNE 16

The dedication of the new Baptist church edifice is announced to take place June 16. It was announced some weeks ago for May 12th, but the pews for the new auditorium were not here and it had to be postponed. The pews are now being installed, and with a few exceptions the church will be finished and completely furnished within two weeks. The pews will accommodate nearly 600 and there are more than 600 chairs.

The building is so arranged that a large sliding door separates the auditorium practically in the center. When this door is up, persons sitting in the Sunday school next week and near just as distinctly as those nearer the pulpit. The Junior department of the Sunday school has an auditorium complete in itself—composed of first floor and balcony—three separate rooms in each. This little auditorium will accommodate from 75 to 100 juniors, and their singing will not in the least disturb the main school exercises. The Beavers are on a floor directly off the street, away from others, in two rooms which will accommodate from 50 to 80 little children.

O. J. Hawkins, the contractor, is expecting to be through with the building about the first of next week. John Sawyer, who has had the painting contract, is now putting the finishing strokes on the organ pipes, which will be up in a few days. James Fassman, who did the wiring, has his work almost finished and the lighting of this church is the best that can be found—an indirect system being used. When lighted the dome is very brilliant but without any glare. Fresh air is pumped into the church by a large fan with electric motor whether in winter or summer, without opening windows or doors. Water put the mantels in, and Mr. Stare is now finishing the job of laying the tile floors and the vestibules. The rubbish on Granville and Fifth street is being removed, which will improve the corner also.

TWO TELEPHONE MEN HAVE ENLISTED IN THE SIGNAL CORPS

Two employees of the Newark Telephone company left this evening for military camps. One goes east and the other west. Art Beasley, who has been cable man for the company, has enlisted in the signal corps and goes to Camp Alfred Vail at Little Silver, N. J. The company this morning paid sent him with a handsome wrist watch.

William Falkerson, switchboard man, leaves tonight for Ft. Leavenworth, Kas. He also enlisted in the signal corps and last week the company gave him a wrist watch as a token of the esteem in which he is held.

Police court was a busy place Friday morning following this evening. Two women were among those who made up the membership. Edith Bishop was fined $5 and costs on two charges of disorderly conduct and running a disorderly house. Grace Norman was fined $5 on two charges of disorderly conduct and running a disorderly house. Leonard Russell was fined $5.00 and costs for disorderly conduct. Ernest A. Bell of Cambridge and Arthur Gregory of Columbus were fined $5.00 and costs for intoxication, and seven local drunks drew a like amount.

JANET R. JONES TELLS OF TRIP ACROSS OCEAN

The following interesting letter has been received from Miss Janet Jones, former teacher in the Newark High School, who took the examination for telephone operator abroad and who has arrived safely. The letter was written aboard ship. Miss Jones is the sister of Roderic Jones, attorney of this city:

On board * * 1918.
Dear dear Peg:—Here starts my diary letter which I shall add to each day and send to you as I can. We have just slipped away from the wharf at 5:30 p.m., having been on the boat since 8:30 a.m. No one down at the pier this time—no shouting and no waving; and what surprised me most all passengers ordered inside as soon as we were away from the pier—not a single soul out on deck. Hence no good-bye to the Goddess and no last view of the sky line—more's the pity. Certainly a queer sailing, but all of us are so glad to be off. All of the first class passengers seem to be collected here in the lounge and it seems as if we are to be lectured perhaps—tho it hasn't developed—no, not so. For some reason unknown to us we telephone people were allowed to go out at once—the civilians being held for some sort of instructions. So we got to see the sky line and the Goddess after all. While we were lying on one side of the pier this p.m. quite a good-sized camouflaged boat on the other side turned over on her side like the Eastland. No one was on but workmen and there were conflicting stories as to whether any were lost. 8:00 p.m. not a light on deck, not even a cigar and every port hole and window tightly closed. It seems funny. How I do like the throb of a boat, but I wonder if I'll ever get there, losing half my pleasure because you are not along to enjoy it with me. I suppose not—those trips we took together were fatal to the rest of my life.

As you see instead of being a diary this seems to have developed into a spasmodic attack of witticism. Several things have happened and yet not much. We have a celebrity and a half on board, the famous John Sargent being the celebrity and Major Putnam of the Putnam Publishing Co., being the one half. Both naturally sit at the Captain's table. Putnam gave a very interesting and charming speech last night on the Call of the Republic. The above word "charming" is much overworked but it is the only word I know to describe that peculiar ease and poise that a man secures by traveling much and associating much with really big and cultured people the world over. Life has gone on much the same as usual since the last mentioned days we joined up with the convoy one night and it was a most interesting thing to look out next morning and see a number of other big ships about one. We talk to each other by siren, by whistle, by flag and by wireless and by heliograph, all very exciting, especially when you don't know what it all means. Sometimes several of the boats are abreast, sometimes in line and sometimes scattered. Boat drills commenced at once for the men but we thought we were to be abandoned to drown until Sunday and then we wished we had been. Sunday we were instructed to take our places with the men upon the sounding of the signal. There are half of us females and a number of men in our boat and the same thing in another boat. No matter where you are when that fool signal sounds, you must make a dash for your overcoat and life preserver and tear to your appointed position and there stand silently and stand and stand and stand. The first morning it was an hour and a quarter and since then from 3-4 of an hour to an hour. Civilians don't have to do it yet. Once the signal caught the lieutenant in charge of our boat in the bath tub, he was only about 2 min. late, but his shoes were merely tied and I don't think he had on any thing to speak of under his overcoat and was dampish around the edges—and it was cold, too. I couldn't have done as well. Always about 10 minutes late, some fellow comes tearing in amid the audible smiles of everyone and gets blown up by the lieutenant. Yesterday the Colonel blew up, our lieutenant about something or other. One day one boy came staggering up about 12 minutes late—we all laughed until we saw his face—it was the color of milk except for a light greenish hue. He certainly was sick—poor fellow. Then the lieutenant blew him up for being late and the captain, when he came along for not having part of his apparel on right. Our lieutenant looks to be about 16 years old, tho he says he is married, and is much embarrassed by the presence of us females—he's a nice boy tho.

There are about ten of the best looking English and Canadian officers on board with all the characteristics of Englishmen. One has the Victoria Cross, and another has a bunch of flat black ribbons hitched to the back of his collar—we were greatly excited to know if it was some new form of mourning but finally discovered that he belonged to a famous regiment of Welsh fusiliers and all the regiment wore that sign—a decoration conferred before this war for conspicuous bravery. They have that interesting expression the most of those seem to have who have been "in it."

The sea has been as calm as a pool until today when there is a little motion, but not much. We sail with every light out not even a cigarette permitted on deck and curtains held fore all the doors—every port hole tightly closed all quite spooky.

As you see this is two days later. I think I stopped the above on Tuesday. Wednesday the sea was still rougher and several of the party were sick—it must have been very bad for the privates who are crowded in the second class and steerage quarters—their deck was swept by the waves and the spray all day, and they all stayed inside. One of the boys had a bad case of pneumonia (he is now past the crisis and O. K.) and a couple of the Red Cross nurses on board volunteered to take care of him; one of them was as sea-sick as he was otherwise sick. The fellow had spent $400 in about three days in N. Y., just before sailing, which doubtless accounts for his illness. Yesterday we were given orders to wear our life preservers all the time—you can imagine what we look like, but orders is orders. Today the passengers had their first dose of boat drill—I understand that some of them had to be squelched for undue levity on this occasion. Some idiots thing it is smart you know—yet I fancy that if the real summons were sounded they would be the first to lose their heads.

Everything has gone placidly on its way since the last bit—which was a few days ago. We land tomorrow and will be * * * River. It is now 8:00. Yesterday the sea was the calmest I have ever seen—it was exactly like a mill pond—you expected to see sea weed and other algae floating around it. It was good weather for us, for a periscope could be seen for miles around—but it was not at all interesting. Today we have had quite a thrilling time. About 1:00 a.m. today we heard an explosion, or rather heard and felt it, nothing was evident when we went on the other side to look and we didn't think very much of it—the captain reported this afternoon that it was a submarine and that we, the convoy got it. I forgot to mention the fact that the destroyers met us two days ago about 5:00 a.m. It has been exceedingly interesting to watch them, they are quite small and long and slender and the way they circle and dart about among and around the ships of the convoy is very graceful and mighty pretty to see. This afternoon about 1:30 there was a heavy explosion that shook our ship badly—everyone jumped up and rushed to the side from which the noise came. Several people said "they got us that time." I didn't think they had for I didn't think it shook the boat enough, but never having been subbed before I of course wasn't sure. When we arrived on the port side of the ship everyone was looking at a thing that was sticking up from the water about 300 yards away. Just when I got there another shot was fired from one of the convoy and one of the destroyers picked up speed in the prettiest way I ever saw and went like a streak right at the thing (so it seemed) it did, however, pass a little to one side, and dropped a bomb as it passed; it then shot ahead for about 500 yards and dropped another, causing a good deal of a kick up in the water. Just at that moment the whistles for the boat drill sounded. I did think then that though we had not been struck, the officers were expecting us to be. Everyone else thought so, too, and I rather think it was the case. Everyone fell into position very quickly and thank goodness our boat position was very near at that time and we could see its passengers also drawn up at boat drill. During this time the destroyers were chasing quite wildly about and one of them was constantly heliographing. No one seemed much excited though I admit that I was quivering some with excitement as were a number of other people, but no one was wild and no one looked scared—I don't believe they were. Things soon calmed down and we were dismissed. It seems that the periscope looking thing was one of floating spar decoys with bomb attached to it—its object being to try to induce the ship to ram it and thus explode it and destroy the ship. The first shot was fired from one of the big ships of the convoy who took the thing for a real sub; when the destroyer realized what it was and tore over to it to explode the attached bomb or mine by dropping a death bomb—but what it did further on and why, and what the first explosion was that so shook the ship I don't know. Some said a torpedo crossed a few rods in front of our ship, others that the submarine was caught by the depth bombs, but no one who knows seems willing to tell. Anyway it was quite a little thriller and since no one was hurt it was very interesting. The men on the boat fail to see the interest in these occasions, apparently—they are too serious about it and no wonder for many of them have been subbed several times—the captain spent 4 hours in the water the last time. They call our captain the sub-dodger.

Official word seems to have just come concerning both the morning and afternoon affairs. This morning the submarine fired at the ship farthest off in our convoy, and we did get her. Also when we were called to boat drill there was what seemed to me to be a smoke screen, really was one; one of the destroyers clear off on that side of the convoy chased the whole length of the convoy setting off a train of smoke behind so that for a few minutes it screened a large part of the convoy. This afternoon there was a submarine as well as the decoy and we did get her as evidenced by the oil on the water and, they say, by pieces of metal. I guess she did shoot a torpedo at us but I'm not sure about that. I suppose no one would be really scared of these boats unless we were actually struck—for many things happen that we don't get excited until it is absolutely necessary. But the prettiest thing I ever saw was, as I say, the way that little destroyer leaped to it, like a greyhound, exactly.

We have not had our clothes off for two past nights and this morning when about 11:00 one of the girls proposed taking a bath the steward nearly had a fit. He said, "She doesn't realize what she's doing. She oughtn't to do that. She mustn't do it, etc., etc." I did take off my skin the first night and my shoes both nights for I couldn't stand them on. The officers took off their shoes and coats but slept in everything else. Just made a round of the deck and there are lights all about us, the mine sweeps have been taken in, our whistle is tooting and they are showing lights from the port holes—so we are in and safe—disturbing

Little, but Oh, My!

He's a wee laddie, but ready to do his bit. The spirit of the Scot is readily evident in the young as well as the old and it is this same spirit that carries the men with the kilts "over the top" to victory. Many of Scotland's sons, from six to sixty, are today proving that the valor of their ancestors still lives and can never be conquered. The little shaver here is safe—waiting for a pilot to take us up the river. * * *

We got our box of rations this afternoon just like the rest of the men—does it mean we are to be hustled right on the train from the boat? I'm sure I don't know.

Well good-night, my dear and good-bye for this time. Will mail this at once. Can hardly wait to get a letter from you but imagine I will have to wait for some time. Heaps of love to you and all. Janet R. Jones.

Persian Bridal Customs.

The Persian bridegroom is obliged to give a certain sum of money, in addition to other presents. If he is in moderate circumstances he gives his bride two complete dresses, a ring and a mirror. He also supplies the furniture, carpets, mats, culinary utensils and other necessities for their home.

shown presents a fine example of this fact in Mrs. Humphrey Ward's famous novel on the war, "Missing," which has just been produced as a Paramount picture by J. Stuart Blackton. The many thousands who have read this story can readily appreciate the motion picture possibilities of the thrilling subject visualized on an elaborate scale.

Cultivate Good Habits.

There are some simple habits which should be cultivated by all young people. First of all is faithfulness. This includes fidelity to one's promises, one's engagements, one's friends. Then comes kindness. No one has a right to hurt the life, or cloud the happiness, of another. The use of time, also, should be sacred. No one can be stilled in "killing time." The same words apply to the use of money. Money is time, and talent coined into silver and gold. Reading, letter-writing, personal appearance, dress, the keeping of Sunday, the making of friends, are all contributing factors to the making of a life. "It is more difficult to make a life than to make a living."

You can have a man out, but you can't always keep him there.

FARMERS BOUGHT BONDS.

Next to the aggregate number of subscribers perhaps the most striking feature of the Third Liberty Loan was the support given it by the farming and rural population of the country. Not only did the farmers purchase liberally of the bonds, but the rural communities as a rule were more prompt in completing their quotas of the loan than the larger cities. More than 20,000 communities in the United States subscribed or oversubscribed their quotas, many of them on the first day of the campaign. The majority of these were not cities but country districts.

Iowa, a typical agricultural State, was the first to subscribe its quota and was followed by Oregon, Arkansas, Kentucky and other States in which agriculture is the leading industry.

It is impossible to give accurate figures but it is estimated that while only 2 per cent of the farming population of the United States subscribed to the first and second loans, probably ten times as many subscribed to the third. The significance is increased by the facts that the heavy subscription was made at a season when the farmers are ordinarily in the borrowing and not on the lending and investing side of the market, and when the farms of the country are speeded up to the limit.

The wide distribution of the third loan among the whole people shows that the body of the Nation has become aroused and gone into action—that the sense of duty and the necessity for individual support of the country has permeated the whole people. Secretary McAdoo may justly be enthused over the result and call it the soundest national financing in the world. Every Liberty Bond holder is an active force backing the government.

Our soldiers in France and our Allies are heartened and strengthened by the knowledge that 17,000,000 American citizens are backing them with their money, and our enemies must learn with fear and dread of this great reserve force upon which their adversaries can rely.

ROUNDING UP LOAFERS.

The government, in dealing with the loafer question, has taken a step that has a number of times been advocated in the Advocate. The policy is now announced that idlers and men of draft age not employed in essential occupations, must apply themselves to labor that will help win the war. This policy should not merely apply to those of draft age. It is fundamentally wrong that our army should lack the supplies it needs, on account of lack of labor, when husky men are serving in capacities that in no way contribute to success of the war.

Millions of people are still engaged in non-productive occupations. Take all the men employed as valets and servants in the homes of the wealthy, in swell clubs and hotels. In so far as service of this kind is necessary, it should be performed by women. In England and France, most people have given up their servants, at least their men. Women formerly employed as maids have gone on farms or into munition plants. To get a war time production, we must cut out these luxuries. Take porters on sleeping and parlor cars. One or more persons are needed on such trains to make up births. It is not necessary to have a man in each car. Many women could do it. The time of chair car porters is spent in dusting off passengers and performing services that they don't want, and which they consider a nuisance to have to pay for.

Everywhere strong and strapping men are performing practically useless service while we complain of lack of labor. The government has acted none too soon, and it should round up these non-essential workers very thoroughly.

The torrid temperature these days does not tend to make one consider seriously his next winter's fuel supply but the Newark gas company, the fuel administration and common sense all demand that next year's coal supply be stored as quickly as possible. There is every indication that fuel will be more difficult to obtain the coming season than it was last winter.

Some one asks what has become of the horse that immediately began to climb a tree the moment he saw an automobile? Well, last heard from you couldn't even get six miles an hour out of him by lining him up with a machine.

The Germans aren't bothered by that 90,000 lot of American soldiers that came over in 10 days recently, as Bill Hohenzollern positively assures them they merely came over to look at the Paris styles.

When we get a few more destroyers with their depth bombs, across, the Germans will be wanting to give up submarine warfare for humanitarian reasons.

The people who complain because their neighbors raise too many flowers in war time, will perhaps do well if they raise as many vegetables as the flower gardeners usually produce.

The man who kicks on eating corn meal muffins is often the same one who used to beg his mother to make some more of those dandy corn johnny cakes.

SOLDIERS FROM FORTY TO FORTY-FIVE.

(Columbus Dispatch.)
At this time over 40 years of age cannot enlist in the military service of this country. A bill is pending to raise the age-limit to 35 years, it being understood that volunteers over 40 shall be employed only in noncombatant positions behind the lines.

The bill ought to become a law. Any man who is physically fit ought to be allowed to enlist if he so desires. There are hundreds of thousands of men over 40 who would do splendid service if allowed to volunteer, and for every man employed in the positions which these older men could fill it would mean a younger man available for the front.

There is no use talking about making fighting men out of soldiers over 40. They are no good as soldiers in the line. They cannot stand the strain, and they are not as courageous as younger men. It may be due to the fact that courage comes to some extent from discipline, and the older a man is the harder it is to discipline him. At any rate a regiment of young men will pull off deeds of daring that a regiment of older men could not accomplish.

But the places behind the line—they are just as necessary and just as honorable as the fighting front. At this time it requires 45 per cent of the army for duty behind the fighting lines—along the lines of communication, in hospitals, or at the headquarters or supply stations. Those who serve in such positions are serving their country as surely as if they were out in front firing rifles or throwing bombs. Older men might be used successfully in such places, and it is to allow them to do so that the new law is proposed.

WAR SAVINGS STAMP INVESTMENT IS URGED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

To save material and labor for necessary war purposes, President Wilson has appealed to Americans "to buy only those things which are essential to the individual health and efficiency," and to volunteer on or before June 28, National Thrift day, to invest systematically in war savings and thrift stamps.

"This war is one of nations—not of armies," said the president, "and all of our 100,000,000 people must be economically and industrially adjusted to war conditions if this nation is to play its full part in the conflict."

"The problem before us is not primarily a financial problem, but rather a problem of increased production of war essentials and the saving of the materials and the labor necessary for the support and equipment of our army and navy."

"Thoughtless expenditure of money for nonessentials uses up the labor of men, the products of the farms, mines and factories and overburdens transportation, all of which must be used to the utmost and at the best for war purposes."

"The great results which we seek can be obtained only by the participation of every member of the nation, young and old, in a national concerted thrift movement. I therefore urge that our people everywhere pledge themselves, as suggested by the secretary of the treasury, to the practice of thrift; to serve the government to their utmost in increasing production in all fields necessary to the winning of the war; to conserve food and fuel and useful materials of every kind; to devote their labor only to the most necessary tasks; and to buy only those things which are essential to individual health and efficiency; and that the people, as evidence of their loyalty, invest all that they can save in liberty bonds and war savings stamps. "The securities issued by the treasury department are so many of them within the reach of everyone that the door of opportunity in this matter is wide open to all of us. To practice thrift in peace times is a virtue and brings great benefit to the individual at all times; with the desperate need of the civilized world today for materials and labor with which to end the war, the practice of individual thrift is a patriotic duty and a necessity."

"I appeal to all who now own either liberty bonds or war savings stamps to continue to practice economy and thrift and to appeal to all who do not own government securities to do likewise and purchase them to the extent of their means. The man who buys government securities transfers the purchasing power of his money to the United States government until after this war, and to that same degree does not buy in competition with the government."

"I earnestly appeal to every man, woman and child to pledge themselves on or before the 28th of June to save constantly and to buy as regularly as possible the securities of the government; and to do this as far as possible through membership in war savings societies. The 28th of June ends the special period of enlistment in the great volunteer army of production and saving here at home. May there be none unenlisted on that day."

THINK OF OUR OWN MEN TODAY.

(Springfield Republican.)

An American railroad official who has been on the British, French and American fronts, and close up to the German line, reports that nowhere on the whole allied front did he hear a pessimistic note. "Our men who are doing the fighting have the most superb courage the world ever saw; they are not afraid of anything that Germany can bring on." That is as it should be. Like all who are in touch with our fighting men over there, this American observer urges 100 per cent co-operation at home, and to that effort the country is keyed. The thing which has made the loaning and giving so general and adequate has been recognition of the fact that we at home are bound by every tie and high consideration to maintain our men in France and on the sea at the maximum of efficiency.

It would have been a disgrace to the locality from which came the larger part of the 104th regiment if our people had failed to measure up to the record they have made for us. We are to fill that chest so full that its overflow will amply suffice to give the men whose services France has so signally honored the regimental fund they have called for. If there were any doubters of the desirability of such allotment—where none are in evidence—their attention might be directed to the fact that the most moving factor contributing to the fire and success of the war chest campaign has been the inspiration, running all through it, that has come from the fame soldiers going from this region have won for themselves and for us. A share in this great fund is due to those men by right of their conquest of immortality. Not yet have we gotten over our wonder that the men from Camp Bartlett should have been first to achieve that unprecedented regimental distinction for the army of the United States on foreign soil.

Yes—a thousand times yes!—the men of the 104th can have all they need out of our treasure chest that is to be made sufficient to satisfy all expected demands from the associations of mercy, relief and sustenance. The thought that we are also to provide for the direct giving to our own will lend zest and strength to such a round-up as will make this day memorable in the local life. Nothing could be more fitting than that we should go over the top with the 104th as our rallying cry.

LEAVE IT TO GEN. FOCH.

(Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.)

The reports from Paris that Gen. Foch "has the situation well in hand" are genuinely reassuring when considered in connection with the preliminary to the German drive along the Aisne. Do not forget that the Allies are on the defensive. What that signifies has been explained many times of late. Advantage lies with the side that takes the initiative simply because that side knows what it is going to do, how it is going to move. The commander of the defenders can only guess. A wrong guess, if acted on, may prove fatal. The safest course is to wait for a sign of the enemy's purpose. Gen. Foch displayed his wisdom by waiting. For that our confidence that he has successfully met the attack is strengthened.

Throughout the last 10 days all the Allies have known a resumption of the German offensive was impending. Indications were it would be launched where it broke down in April—against Amiens and in the vicinity of Ypres. The Germans had been observed concentrating great bodies of troops and drilling them in maneuvers which were surmised to be the ones they would employ in the drive for which they were preparing. They hoped the Allies reserves would be massed where the blow was expected. But they were simply starting a show, and that seems to have been sensed by Gen. Foch. As proof we observe the enemy striking at widely separated points, but most heavily where he had been least expected to attack, and Gen. Foch was ready to move in his reserve army as soon as the German plan was developed. The tremendous force and weight of the blow along the Aisne accounts for the success of the forward movement in its initial stage. The Germans drove about as far, in their maximum advance, as they did at the beginning of their drive from St. Quentin in March. Apparently they have done their worst against the rather thin defending lines, for the reserves, which include Americans as well as French and British, and presumably Italians, have already made their presence felt. The German advance has come to a halt. Another colossal struggle is to be expected. Frightful slaughter of Germans is certain and defeat of them is inevitable.

American troops are about to be tried as they have not been before. Small numbers of them have been engaged. It is true, in the big battles and they have won the admiration of Allied commanders and men. Now we may expect considerable bodies of them to get into the thick of the fighting. As a prelude to the event, and as a stimulus to the trust which we repose in them, one regiment has just given a thrilling demonstration of American pluck and will to win, in the capture of the town of Cantigny. They set a pace for all to emulate. We may be sure that in the driving back of the Hun, Uncle Sam's boys will have a glorious share.

Spirit of the Press

"Put on the Bum."
"We can put the American Army on the bum as quickly and effectively as we can wreck a construction company plant." Such is the treasonable language imputed to one of the defendants in the I. W. W. cases by a witness. Without passing upon the authenticity of the testimony, it may be said in all fairness that there is too much reason to believe that the dangerous organization has been quite as hostile to the Army as to industry generally. Its acts of violence have been many; and whether or not they were dictated by pro-German sympathies, their ultimate effect to hamper the government in its prosecution of the war, the work of education and training, may be greatly hampered and delayed. In the circumstances the I. W. W. seems to be the body that ought to be "put on the bum."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A War Milestone.
In view of the British Premier's tendency to credit the Germans with all the power, and perhaps a little more, than they possess, we may rejoice heartily in his assurance that "we are sinking German submarines faster than they can build them, and building merchant ships faster than they can sink them," that the submarine, as a danger which can cause the winning or the losing of the war, has been eliminated. Though it is not spoken unadvisedly in this matter. His speech, therefore marks one of the milestones of the war. It means that we have turned the corner on the road to victory.—Boston Transcript.

Slavs Perceive Light Ahead.
Martial law in Bohemia and increasing ferment among Austria's southern Slavs have a bearing outside the Hapsburg dominions, grave though the outlook may be for the maintenance of anything like the semblance of parliamentary government and public peace. Why is it that the Austro-Germany has made the decisive step to her "final victory" that the subject races of Austria are lashed in their assertions of national independence? If it were true that the Allies are beaten, if Hindenburg is simply waiting for the full fruits of victory to ripen, we should expect in Bohemia and Jugoslavia a recognition of the hopelessness of their situation. If the Austrian Slavs choose defiance instead of conciliation, the impression is unescapable that they do not regard the war as lost for Wilson, Lloyd George and Clemenceau, who were cheered the other day in the streets of Prague.—New York Evening Post.

Did You Know
That Argentina as a republic with a Constitution dates from 1853? The document was revised in 1866 and 1898. The President is elected for six years by electors appointed by the fourteen provinces. The National Congress consists of thirty Senators and one hundred and twenty members of the House of Deputies. The Senators serve for six years, the Deputies for four years. There are fourteen Provinces, ten Territories, and the Federal District of Buenos Ayres. The governors of the Provinces are elected by the people for not less than three years. Each Province has its own Legislature. Military service is compulsory between the twentieth and forty-fifth years. There are five military districts, with a standing army of about 24,000, and a reserve of 125,000.

A HYGIENIST'S OPINION.

(Ohio State Journal.)

We notice that Dr. Evans, the noted health adviser, in answer to many inquiries after information as to what to do for certain infirmities, tells them in three cases out of four to use bran bread, take moderate exercise and drink plenty of water. Often he adds to his prescription vegetables and fruit. Most of the troubles for which advice is asked are it late to the digestive apparatus. If it were not for that people would be healthier and happier, which they would surely be if the food prescribed was more generously used.

There is one inquiry the doctor answers which to our mind commends him as noble authority in the world of physical ailments. He is asked if doughnuts are digestible? His answer is: "The common opinion is that doughnuts are indigestible. I do not know of any foundation for the opinion." Now we know he is a reliable hygienist, though we see he straddles the question as to the virtues of dandelion tea.
